

THE ICG NEWSLETTER

PUBLISHED BY THE INTERNATIONAL COSTUMERS' GUILD, INC.

VOLUME III, ISSUE 3 - SUMMER (JULY/AUGUST) 2004

The International Costumers' Guild, Inc. (ICG), is an affiliation of amateur, hobbyist, and professional costumers dedicated to the promotion and education of costuming as an art form in all its aspects.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Hello, Everyone.

Another Costume-Con has passed and we have started looking toward the next. This year we will be looking forward to an extra newsletter as we gear up to a bi-monthly schedule. Next year, we'll be producing a full six issue series.

The D-list as always is full of chatter about all sorts of things from working with foam and new patterns to a review of our history.

The Guidelines folks have put a new version on our web site (www.costume.org) for everyone to go over and give their opinions. As this is a sensitive issue I have asked that all discussion be off list. Please take the time to read them over and send your suggestions to the committee.

Your Board members are working away at keeping the ICG running as smoothly as it can.

Regarding the ICG Archives (I am changing hats): We have started replacing the archival video tapes with dvd+r disks and the project is going well.

A little plug here for Costume-Cons & Costume College

Over the next few years please get to a Costume-Con and see what we are doing. Costume-Cons are our little bit of heaven. We should all make every effort to get to as many as we can. It is also your chance to be heard and have your vote counted at the Annual ICG Meeting. If you don't go and you don't vote, we (the Board) have no idea how you feel about our issues.

If you can, also make it a point to go to Costume College this year or next. If learning more about your craft and your hobby is important to you, this is one of the places to be. Between Costume-Con and Costume College you will learn, share and compete in the best of conditions.

And I must say personally that, as far as being treated well, the hotel for Costume College is the best I have ever seen.

Thanks to our volunteers and officers!

As always, I would like to thank the people who make being president easier with each passing day. Betsy, who does the newsletter. Dora and all the treasurers, who work very hard. Jeff, who--with all the things happening in his life--makes sure the Web site is up to date. Dana, who keeps the notes, Sandy, who writes the letters and Nora, who makes sure I don't make bad mistakes. And Pierre who puts up with my calls with dumb questions about that guy Robert and his rules. Thank you all.

So go and enjoy the summer. I look forward to seeing most of you at Costume College or at WorldCon in Boston this year. And when Costume-Con rolls around next year, I would love to see everyone there as well.

C. D. Mami, President

FROM THE EDITOR

For those of you who celebrate the holiday, Happy Independence Day! Hope you had a great time with the barbecue or fireworks display of your choice...

There's lots of news in this issue, starting with the word from Western Canada that they're seceding from the ICG. This notice coincides with the launch of a new section, specifically devoted to chapter announcements and reports. See the section immediately below this letter for more information.

Beginning with this issue, we publish on a bi-monthly schedule. This means we need your participation and input! Send us any of the following - announcements, articles, art or ads.

This is also the first issue at our new address. (I'm in the midst of a major house move, and all that entails!) It was far enough away from the old post office to justify changing our mailing address, too. To contact the newsletter staff by snail mail, please use the following:

The ICG Newsletter
PO Box 2357
Bowie, MD 20718-2357
(301) 922-1865

Starting with the next issue (September/October), we will hopefully be mailing our newsletter using our new Non-Profit permit. The paperwork has been filed and we should hear back within 30 days. Assuming we're approved, we should receive a refund for part of the first class postage we paid for this issue. Please be sure to contact us ASAP and let us know if you receive a damaged copy or if your copy never arrives.

As always, your contribution is valuable and we're actively looking for it - please let us know what you would like to see or consider submitting something for a future issue of the newsletter. Please feel free to contact us using the info on Page 6, and we'll be happy to include your contribution in an upcoming issue.

CHAPTER ANNOUNCEMENTS

Here's your opportunity to let the rest of the ICG know what's going on in your chapter! Submit your announcements by the 15th of the month prior to publication for inclusion in the next issue!

T Western Canadian Costumers' Guild:

Effective July 1, 2004, the WCCG has seceded from the ICG. If you are currently a member of the WCCG and you wish to remain an ICG Member, you must change your chapter affiliation. Please see the chapter list (page 5) for chapter information.

T New Jersey/New York Chapter (The Sick Pups):

The SouthPaws (new sub-chapter of the Sick Pups) launches this August! Our first meeting (including costumers' flea market and an open house for members Betsy and Dan Delaney) will start at 1pm, Saturday, August 14, 2004. Everyone is welcome - ICG membership not required to attend! For more information, please contact us at 301.922.1865 or send email to SouthPaws@hawkeswood.com.

ORGANIZATIONAL STUFF

Chapter Business

Breaking news: The Western Canadian Costumers' Guild has chosen to secede from the ICG, effective as of July 1, 2004. WCCG members who wish to remain active in the ICG must choose a different chapter affiliation. Both SiW and CGW have offered to accept displaced WCCG members - for more information, please contact the chapter(s) of your choice.

Board Business

We are presently discussing the following topics on the ICG BOD list:

- < Household Membership - relative benefits, costs, and disadvantages of offering the option to ICG members
- < Newsletter production costs; delivery methods
- < Newsletter delivery options to be offered to members in the same household.

In addition, the ICG's Masquerade Guidelines Committee has produced its first public draft of the proposed rewritten guidelines for international competition. Andy Trembley, Committee Co-Chair, has submitted the following:

"The background, for those who walked into this conversation late: In the early 90's the International Costumers Guild attempted to codify a bunch of masquerade traditions (particularly surrounding WorldCon and Costume-Con) in a single comprehensive document to guide future masquerade directors. The ICG Masquerade Guidelines were adopted in 1992.

"Arguments over whether the process and result were successful or not continue to this day. The guidelines are not well promoted or understood in the costuming community, and even among those who have invested much time in studying and working on the guidelines you will sometimes hear the faint praise of "well, they're better than nothing" or the damning comment "they've done more harm than good."

"Over the last three years, numerous discussions about the guidelines prompted a group of ICG members to form a committee to examine the substance of the guidelines and write a new draft that is more concise and accessible. That's done. It's time, now, for your input. Please take some time to read our draft at www.costume.org/guidelines-committee/draft1.html

"If you have any comments, please send them to <guidelines@costume.org>"

THE VILLAINOUS JACKET

By Randall Whitlock, SWCG

What is the well-dressed SF villain wearing this year? If it's any year since 1962, when "Dr. No" hit the big screen, the answer is probably a well-tailored Nehru Jacket.

The Nehru Jacket is named for Jawaharlal Nehru, who served as prime minister of India from its independence from the British Empire until his death in 1964. The jacket is a perfect blend of traditional South Asian styles with Western business suits. Nehru jackets were briefly popular in the west during the middle 1960's, most likely associated with the Beatles' well-publicized interests in meditation, sitar music, and other things Indian.

The Nehru Jacket and its less well-fitted cousin, the Mao Suit, have been worn by many familiar bad guys from film and television, including Dr. No, Ernst Blofeld*, The Master, and their perfect parodies, Dr. Evil and Mini Me. Vandal Savage wore the style in a 2003 episode of the animated "Justice League." The reader can doubtless recall many other examples.

The plain and austere style of the jacket still looks futuristic, even though it's more than 60 years old. The look is perfect to convey a villain's "I'm a genius and deserve to rule the world" attitude. I'm tempted to include double-breasted, tight-collared coats like those worn by the "Star Wars" villains Grand Moff Tarkin and Count Dooku, but these cuts seem to owe more to the military uniforms of the late 19th Century.

I recently had the opportunity to examine a genuine Nehru Jacket loaned by friend and 60's survivor Pete Manly. This example is made of a brown cotton corduroy with a patterned satin lining. This one has hip pockets, an inside pocket, a back vent, a row of five leather shank buttons, and sleeve buttons. Most of these features are optional. I've seen others with no visible pockets or buttons, or with a breast pocket. The cut of a Nehru Jacket is the same as a conventional single-breasted sport coat, with tailored shoulders and light shoulder pads. The only real difference is in the collar. Sport coats have their front closures folded over to form lapels. Nehru jacket fronts continue upward to a close-fitting band collar.

How do you get a Nehru Jacket? Here are three good possibilities:

1. Buy one. Genuine jackets from the 60's turn up frequently on e-Bay, while newly made jackets can be found on Halloween costume web sites. Check out "Austin Powers" fan sites.
2. Make one. Any published pattern for a sport coat will work. Just skip the lapels and substitute a simple band or "mandarin" collar on a circular neck line. Janet Wilson Anderson of Alteryers recommends civil war era shell coat patterns for a basis.
3. Alter one. Obtain a used suit from a thrift store. Narrow-lapel styles (Kennedy suits) work best. Press out the lapels, add a couple more buttonholes and buttons, then remove the original collar. Substitute a band collar in matching fabric. Some cuts don't even need the collar changed.

The possibilities for hall costumes are unlimited. Get yourself a Nehru Jacket in white, gray, or black and accessorize with a cybernetic monocle, a skin wig, a metal glove, painted scars, etc. and you're ready to conquer the universe. The pool of man-eating crocodiles is optional.

*And about half of James Bond's other foes. Sometimes the whole movie series seems to be a running duel between Nehrus and tuxedos.

Pete is an astronomer, aerospace expert, and builder of complicated electronic gadgets. He has the Nehru Jackets and the requisite beautiful daughter. If he perfects his maniacal laugh, he has great career potential in the Evil Overlord business.

THE DRYER TRICK

By Randall Whitlock, SWCG

This is the text of a handout I give to persons who buy one of our "Dreaded Black Fuzzy" capes.

Many of the garments you will find at MoiRandall's are not suitable for machine washing. These might be made of 100 percent wool fabric (which tends to shrink) or cotton velvet (which loses strength when wet and may pull away from the seams).

Ultimately, these garments will need to dry-cleaned. In the meantime, you can keep them fresh and relatively clean for quite a while using mom's old dryer trick.

Moisten a clean bath towel with water and a splash of liquid fabric softener. The towel should be damp, but not soaked.

Toss the towel and your garment into a dryer. Set the dryer to "fluff" or the equivalent non-heat setting. Set the timer for about 90 minutes and turn it on.

The garment will flop around in the dryer, shaking off the dust and lint. The softener-moistened towel helps absorb odor and reduce static. You might add a dryer fabric softener sheet or a spritz of "Febreze" or an equivalent fabric deodorizer to enhance the effect. More delicate garments might be placed inside a mesh bag. These are available in the laundry aisle of most supermarkets. The moistened towel goes outside the bag.

The dryer trick is particularly effective against dry dust and dead grass (inevitable in Arizona). You will be amazed at the amount of lint that will come off of a wool, corduroy, or velveteen garment. Dried mud should be brushed off as much as possible before you try the dryer trick.

Unfortunately, the dryer trick won't help much with food or chlorophyll stains.

The dryer trick has come of age. "Dryel" and other commercial products based on the principle, backed up with a liquid spot remover, are available in grocery stores. I haven't tried them yet.

ICG CHAPTERS AND DUES

All ICG members receive The ICG Newsletter, which is included in the ICG membership fee. ICG Dues per year (per individual): Beginning July 1, 2004, US$6.00.

Full "Individual" chapter members receive the chapter's newsletter, when published, and may also offer additional amenities as well. Some chapters offer "Household" memberships to members of a household in which there is at least one full "Individual" chapter member. Such memberships generally don't include additional copies of chapter publications.

Contact each Chapter directly for more information on becoming a member.

PROCEDURAL STUFF

For Your Information:

At the ICG Annual Meeting, the members present determined that we needed to increase the frequency with which The ICG Newsletter is published, to provide better communication with our members. To cover the cost of two additional issues (for a total of six issues per year), the members present at the Annual Meeting voted to increase individual dues to $6.00 (an increase of $2.00/year). This increase will take effect on July 1, 2004 for all new and renewing members of the ICG.

Beginning with this issue, our publication schedule changes to bi-monthly, allowing more opportunities for submitting articles, calendar items or advertising. Consider this your invitation to contribute! Please see Page 6 for details.

ADJUSTABLE HANGERS? HOW COOL IS THAT?!

No matter what size your garments are, adjustable hangers will fit them perfectly. From extra small to extra large, the telescoping arms of the hanger will adjust to support the shoulders and arms of the garment. Adjust the width of the arms by turning the wheel in the center of the hanger with a garment on it, or simply by pulling or pushing on them when the hanger is not in use. An accessory hook is also standard for keeping up with belts, jewelry, scarves, or sashes or for tiering the hangers. offered in packages of three. Available at The Container Store® for $4.99/pkg.
